Burke Williams Spas use thousands of gallons of water a day in whirlpools, steam rooms, saunas, misting rooms and cold plunges. Needing to provide the highest quality experience for their clients, they were concerned about the quality of their tap water and the drying effects chlorine had on clients hair and skin. In addition, they wanted to provide their clients with clean, delicious drinking water while reducing maintenance costs caused by hard water. Danica Amstadt ordered a LifeSource System for their Torrance location and noticed the immediate improvement it made in the quality of the spa experience they provided. Management liked the system so much, they installed five more units in their San Francisco and Danville locations.
